In the world of ANO Studio, there's Hannah, the creative force behind the brand. She operates a design studio and online shop based in Amsterdam, The Netherlands, specializing in art prints and illustration. Throughout her creations, a Japanese aesthetic permeates, demonstrating her deep affection for Japan, which continually serves as an abundant source of inspiration for her work. This love for Japanese culture, when blended with her passion for geometry and fine linework, defines what ANO Studio represents.

Sustainability holds great importance for Hannah. She diligently strives to incorporate eco-friendly practices into her work. For example, she opts for soy inks whenever possible and chooses recycled FSC certified paper for her prints. Everything in her operation is produced and printed locally in The Netherlands, including her recycled bubble wrap – a testament to her commitment to sustainability.

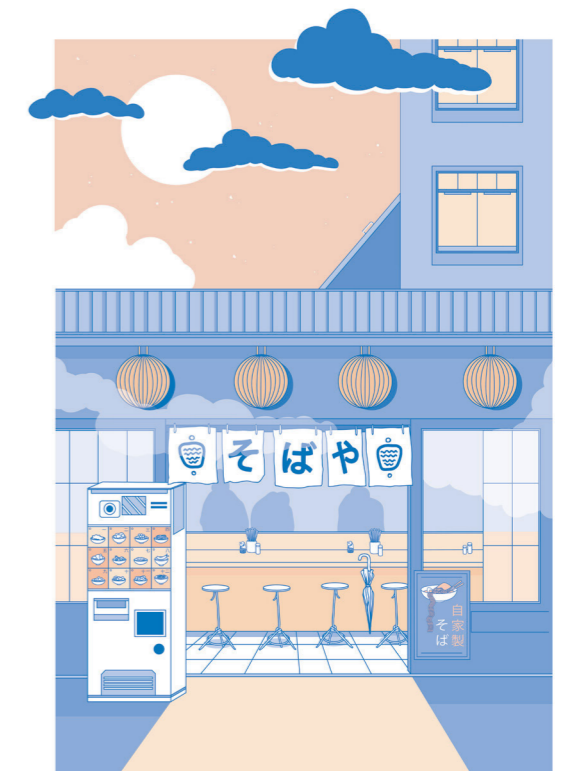

In the Japanese context, "ano" あの can be utilized as a conversational space filler, akin to saying "umm." It serves as a convenient way to navigate conversations, particularly when one feels a bit shy or hesitant, as Hannah sometimes does.
